Love Is Eternal Irving Stone

Engraved on the wedding ring that Abraham slipped on Mary's finger were the words "Love is Eternal." Irving Stone chose those same three words as the title of his biographical novel of Mary's life. It is a sympathetic novel, one that elevates Mary above the usual caricature of an ego-centric, materialistic, shrew.

Love is Eternal by Irving Stone - Goodreads

Love is Eternal - Irving Stone £ 4.99 This product is sold out. "Love is Eternal" was the inscription Abraham Lincoln had engraved on the wedding ring he gave Mary Todd. This book tells Mary's own story, especially her romance with Abraham and her years of marriage which were happier than historians generally believe.

Irving and Lona Stone returned to the United States in the 1930s from Europe, where he had been researching Van Gogh for six months. In 1930 he received a letter from Dr. Felix Rey - who had treated Vincent after he'd cut off his own ear in December 1888. Rey later became Stone's friend and was the subject of a portrait painting by Van Gogh.
